

I am totally opposed to allow the use of cell phones on airplanes and hope the FCC does not give in any pressure that says its the best thing to do. If society can't be without the use of the phone for a few hours, we are in deep trouble. The confined atmosphere of a plane should be only for work, rest and or watching a movie not being disturbed by the mindless jabber of rude passengers wanting to know what the other person at the end of the line had for dinner.

thank you.
